Explanation of Scores

Skill Area	Definition	Candidate's Capabilities
Speaking	Speaking reflects the ability to produce intelligible communication in spoken English in everyday and workplace situations. The score is based on the ability to produce consonants, vowels, and stress in a native-like manner, use accurate syntactic processing and appropriate usage of words in meaningful sentence structures, as well as use appropriate rhythm, phrasing, and timing.	Candidate produces some simple sentences. Candidate speaks with irregular rhythm and pronounces many consonants and vowels in a strong, intrusive non-English manner. Candidate has limited awareness of register.
Listening	Listening reflects the ability to understand specific details and main ideas from everyday and workplace speech. The score is based on the ability to track meaning and infer the message from English that is spoken at a conversational pace.	Candidate understands simple everyday conversational speech when it is spoken clearly and directed at him/her.
Reading	Reading reflects the ability to understand written English texts on everyday and workplace topics. The score is based on the ability to operate at functional speeds to extract details and main ideas, infer the message, and construct meaning.	Candidate reads, understands, and responds to texts on everyday and workplace topics at a moderate pace. In more complex texts, specific details will be lost.
Writing	Writing reflects the ability to produce accurate, appropriate written responses at a functional pace on everyday and workplace topics. The score is based on the ability to present ideas and information in a clear and logical sequence, use a wide range of appropriate words, use appropriate register, as well as a variety of sentence structures.	Candidate writes straightforward texts on familiar subjects using a limited range of grammatical structures and an sufficient range of common English words. Organizational structure is adequate and tone is mostly appropriate.

SAMPLE OF CANDIDATE'S WRITTEN SKILLS

During the test, the candidate was given three minutes to write a description of this picture.

Candidate's response

The woman is borrowing books in a lab, now she is talking with the manager in front of the desk which has a computer on it.

SPEAKING PROFILE

Skill Area	Candidate's Capabilities
Sentence Mastery	Candidate can understand, recall, and produce some English phrases and clauses in sentence context. Candidate produces some simple meaningful sentences.
Vocabulary	Candidate usually understands and can produce everyday and workplace English words when they are used in clear speech.
Pronunciation	Candidate consistently pronounces certain consonants and vowels in a non-English manner. Speech is mostly intelligible, but many listeners will need to adjust to the accent.
Fluency	Candidate speaks with irregular phrasing or rhythm, making some false starts, long pauses, and/or hesitations. Speech is notably uneven and discontinuous and may exhibit inappropriate sentence-level word emphasis.

WRITING PROFILE

Skill Area	Candidate's Capabilities
Grammar	Candidate understands and produces a sufficient range of grammatical structures in English. Errors may occur frequently but do not interfere with the writer's meaning.
Word Choice	Candidate understands and produces a good range of English words. Word choices are mostly accurate but are not always the most effective way to convey a message.
Voice & Tone	Candidate's use of tone is effective. The candidate's writing gives a mostly positive effect on the reader; commitment to addressing the reader's concern is evident.
Organization	Candidate's writing has an organizational structure that is somewhat clear. Ideas are mostly organized; although occasional connections may be unclear, this does not cause the reader confusion.

Relationship to International Standards

Scores from PTE Professional are reported on the Global Scale of English (GSE). Research has been conducted to explore how GSE relates to standard international scales that describe language proficiency. The corresponding scores or levels provided are based on the relationships observed in these studies.

CEFR The Common European Framework of Reference (CEFR) is a widely recognized scale created by the Council of Europe to describe the language competencies of individuals. The six reference levels (see below) are offered as the European standard for referencing an individual's language proficiency. This framework also serves as a broader, global standard for language learning providers and policy-makers.

GSE The Global Scale of English (GSE) is reported on a scale from 10 to 90. The GSE has been aligned to the Common European Framework of Reference for Languages and provides a common, empirically validated equivalence for Pearson tests measuring English ability.
